Scholarship of Teaching and Learning for Graduate Teaching Assistants

Graduate Teaching Assistants who currently serve as course instructors are invited to participate in this six-week workshop facilitated by ITLE. Structured similarly to an interdisciplinary hybrid-style course, participants can expect to work both independently and as part of a cohort in order to investigate:

- Strategies for creating effective lessons
- Approaches that promote student engagement
- Mechanisms for increasing student motivation
- Influences of educational theory and practice
- Components of effective instructional design
- Techniques that encourage students’ active participation
- Meaningful approaches to assessment

Course Schedule:
Online: August 30, 2018 — October 12, 2018

Face-to-Face Meetings in ITLE 126 (Required):
- August 30, 1:00-3:00
- September 20, 1:00-3:00

Textbook:

Registration:
Workshop fee is $20 and participants will supply their own copy of the textbook. This fee may be covered by the individual participant or through the use of departmental funds. GTAs are encouraged to visit with their advisors and/or department heads about the possibilities for funding.